PHURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 11, 1862.

EXCHANGES. Our friends of the press will do us a favor b directing their issues to the APPEAL at Grenada. Mississippi. Without exchanges we cannot keep up with the current news, and in order that we transpiring events as possible, gentlemen who may arrive in the city with late journals from points of interest, will place us under obligations by placing them in our possession.

THE ARMY OF THE MISSISSIPPI. Our latest advices are that our army has taken first point at which a sufficient supply of good water could be obtained. The point is also said to offer many other superior advantages , for the comfort of a large army in camp. The Mobile "Tribune" says that there are now over one hundred good wells dug at Tupelo, which furnish an abundant supply of excellent water, and that others are now being dug. There are also a number of bake ovens built there for the use o the army, and many other conveniences conduelve to the comfort and health of the army that could not be arraigned or got any other place. varied results.

Battle near Charleston. AUGUSTA, June 11 .- Fighting still contin nes in the vicinity of Charleston. The papers of that city of this morning contain the partie lars of a sharp engagement on James Island o Tuesday afternoon, which continued until dark. Our forces consisted of three regiments and one battalion of infantry and three batteries, under command of Gen. W. D. Smith. The and his gunboats.

Col. Williams, of the 46th Georgia, was mor tally wounded. Our loss is variously estimated at from thirty to sixty-five, principally Georgians. The loss of the enemy is thought to be large. The Confederates succeeded in driving Yanke's from a piece of woods which they evi
